Summer

Yay!!! The smell of greening grass, garden soil warming up, birds chirping and brighter days are here. Driving around with the top open the other day and Paul Simon's Kodachrome came on the radio. That's just one of those feel good diddy's right? - yep I said diddy - haha. Perfect summer song and I can't help singing along with that one..

♪ 'makes me think all the world's a sunny day - oh yah!' ♪

While ♪ 'I got a Ni---kon camera' ♪ (I really do) and ♪ 'I love to take a photograph' ♪ I don't have the time I used to to indulge my photography side. I've had to leave that to the real pros in recent years, but I'm excited to share with you a few pics of a project we FINALLY got to photograph in March - just before the latest lockdown happened.

Spring and Summer always makes me want to throw open the windows, and start indulging my colourful side, and this issue does just that. You'll find eye-popping art, bold and colour-drenched fabrics, outdoor furniture that will take relaxing to the next level.

Get ready to have your spirits lifted, your mood lightened and your home ready for a summer of stay-cations. I hear all the campsites are booked!

So here's to sunny days ahead!
ohh-yah!

A couple from Ottawa reached out to me to help them select exterior finishes for their home renovation. After having visited new subdivisions and model homes in the area, they decided to stay put and commit to a full home renovation to add much needed space.

BEFORE

They loved their neighborhood and neighbors, proximity to work and services, and the family had put down roots in this area and didn't want to give that up. They'd already had plans drawn up for the renovation by the time they contacted me, but were in 'overwhelm' mode about selecting and coordinating exterior materials. After consulting with the clients in determining the style they were looking for, I put together several options for their project. The renderings below show what the final outcome will be.

AFTER

What We Did

I ended up with 9 different possibilities of combination of materials and colours.

That's a lot I know but. it's better to do this in the planning stages than to make a mistake and not LOVE your house when It's all said and done. In the end, with COVID delays, and shortages we ended up compromising on some materials but all in all it will look exactly as the renderings.

- Corrugated Metal Panels for chimney stack
- White brick veneer or Stucco for left portion of front of house and wrapped around side
- Smooth Hardi Panels for right portion of house and wrapped around side in a custom colour
- Black/Charcoal vertical aluminium siding for portico
- LED Light channel going up one side and across top of entrance
- Daylighting canopy to connect garage to chimney and give presence, and balance out the front entry

Options

Here's a look at one of the proposed material and colour combination. This one has more of a mid-century vibe, and also fit in well with the neighbouring houses.

i provided a lot more detail than just these renderings, and we discussed the different finishes for the back of the house, how to best cap off the chimney with modern chimney caps, lighting options and I provided a complete set of specifications for their contractor.

If you or someone you know needs help with selecting and coordinating the RIGHT materials for your home, find out more about our EXTERIOR SELECTIONS service here to read about what we do and how it will benefit you and your home. We offer it for both new construction and remodelling.
